OFFICER THREATENED WITH TAR AND FEATHERS
NEARLY 200 GRAMMAR SCHOOL GRADUATES

CITY TRUSTEE GETS THREAT TAR FEATHERS

When City Trustee Kirk E. Gray, of El Cerrito, found tar and feathers on the front porch of his residence early Sunday morning, he was puzzled to know their significance. He still is, he told friends at last night's meeting of the trustees.

Gray was active and conspicuous recently in aiding in the raids of the Chinese lottery joint at El Cerrito, and has been outspoken in condemning any other outlawed institutions of this city. He would not state that he attributed the tar and feathers to the source of those who opposed his position, but it generally is believed that such is the case.

Gray said he is prepared for eventualities; he's got some trusty firearms which he will not hesitate to use.

He is a new member of the trustees at El Cerrito.

He would not say who he thought had left the tar and feathers.

DRY LAW IS NOT PASSED AT EL CERRITO

No action was taken by the trustees of El Cerrito last night towards enacting a dry enforcement law to strengthen the Volstead Act.

The position was taken that the cost or accumulating the evidence would be too great for the city to bear, and furthemore that there was likelihood or possibility of the federal government stepping in and conducting raids and reaping all the benefits and emoluments.

A communication was read from the city of Lodi to the effect that that city has spent $1,000 under its dry ordinance, without securing one conviction.

The ordinance drawn up by Attorneys Pierce & Carlson was placed on file.

Friends Toast Wildgrube at Dinner Party

By way of evidencing their friendship, members of the Richmond bar and other friends last night were hosts at a delightful dinner to Henry J. Wildgrube at the Counsing Park clubhouse. Will S. Robenson acted as toastmaster.

"Reminiscences" was the theme of Judge Roth's toast. He took the guests back to the early practice in Richmond a "when Lee Windrem, Frank Smith, Grady and Opsahl were about the only attorneys worth mentioning, and when three of them were present in his office every morning by 8 o'clock to see if default judgment was not due against one of the others—but Windrem was not one of the three," said Roth.

Wilbur Pierce made a happy talk on "Human Nature as I Have Known It," and presented Wildgrube with a handsome solid gold fountain pen from the firm of Pierce & Carlson.

Tear Calfee, lawyer, Legionaire and officer to prevent torturing of cats and other animals, showed further versatility and qualified as an orchardist, chef and wit in his discussion of "Apple Sauce and Other Embellishments."

Those present were Henry J. Wildgrube, Judge John Roth, Wilbur S. Pierce, T. M. Carlson, George Lee, T. H. DeLap, H. E. Jacobs, A. A. Alstrom and W. S. Robenson.

B.Y.P.U. Have Blue Gold Bout

The Baptist Young People's Union of the First Baptist church composed one of the liveliest social assemblages in the city last night. The union is divided into two teams, the Blues and the Golds. Last night the Golds swooped down on the home of Mrs. O. L. Crigler at 1116 Clinton avenue. In a short while the Blues assembled at the home of O. E. Parker, in Fifteenth street, and marched in a body to the Crigler home. The house could not hold them, so they all went to the church, and there made the welkin ring with songs and yells.

From the church they returned to the Crigler residence where refreshments were served. There is where the Golds got in their work; they had their colors carried out in the refreshments, and in the house decorations. They also had their mascot with them. His name is Jiggs, and he's a very patrician yellow spaniel. He hardly deigned to notice the mascot of the Blues, a homely horned toad, named Otto. Otto was wearing a blue ribbon, but the satin sheen of his necktie did not offset the natural aversion which the Golds showed for him.

Those present included Mr. Sears, Rev. C. R. G. Poole, Franklin Poole, Elsie Crigler, Mrs. Hayes, Dorothy Hayes, Messrs. McKenzie, Misses McKenzie, Mr. and Mrs. Parker, Mr. and Mrs. Kinney, Mr. and Mrs. Cook, Aline Cook, Mr. Drake, OpalDrake, Mr. and Mrs. Cole, Mr. and Mrs. Bowman, Dorothy Kinney, Richard Crigler, Mr. and Mrs. Crigler, Mrs. Dooling, Mr. and Mrs. E. Specifically, the Colonel wished to know why the Chinese lotteries were not closed, and why the sale of intoxicants to the boys of the city was not stopped, and why the houses of ill fame were not closed?

His questions were not answered.

SATURDAY SUMMARY

It is lamentable that the city should have got into any such tangle as this garbage mess, as it was unnecessary, there being many places along the bay shore and elsewhere where garbage could be dumped without becoming a public nuisance or being a grievance to our neighbors. The tendency of the times, however, is selfishness, and the city council is no different than other people. Nearly everybody is wrapped up in what they want, and give little care or heed to what other people want, or have a right to. No man should dump his garbage where it would be a nuisance to his neighbor, and he would not allow his neighbor to do so, and a city is but the individual in the aggregate. We do not want our neighbors at San Pablo to feel aggrieved, and we should not want to work any imposition upon them—and the dumping of the city garbage anywhere near them is just that—an imposition. The city has made a foolish investment, but it is not the only foolish investment it ever made, so the best thing to do now, under all the circumstances, is to sell off that site for whatever can be got for it, pocket the loss and forget it, and buy another. The city authorities should not involve the people in expensive litigation in the matter, and that is going to be the outcome if they do not back up on the proposition. The people of San Pablo are not going to allow the garbage of Richmond to be dumped among them, or anywhere near them, in which they are clearly within their rights. If they take the matter into court Richmond will likely lose, and have to pay the costs. The city fathers were more clear as to hindsight than foresight, and overlooked the rights and feelings of the party of the second par. Now it had better commence all over again and do it right. We cannot afford to make enemies of our neighbors, and should not wish to. They are entirely innocent in the premises, and have some rights which we should respect.

Another bunch of young men have been rounded up by the police for being hoodlums, and their parents should be told where to head in by the authorities. It is not the boys who are to blame, half as much as the parents, who are neglecting their duty in bringing them up in the way they should. We do not understand what is getting into parents these days, that so many of them allow their boys to grow up into manhood in a manner that is not only disgraceful but downright criminal. If boys are inclined to be wayward, it is up to the parents to correct it, and any parent who neglects this is not doing his duty to the boy, to himself, to the community or the public at large, and deserves to be told so very plainly. Every day the papers are full of the doings of boy criminals. Three-fourths of the bandits, burglars, thieves, thugs, joy-riding, pool-playing, booze-drinking and even murders are by young men scarcely out of boyhood, and the only possible reason that can be assigned for it is criminal negligence on the part of the parents, and especially the fathers. There is no excuse for it whatever, and it is totally unnecessary. The average boy of today is just as good a boy as the boys of years ago were, but they get no training and go to the devil and fetch up in the penitentiaries of worse. Our parole and probation system is all wrong, also. Half the crimes being committed are by young men out on parole or probation. Do away with the parole and probation foolishness, and chuck these young rascals into jail and punish them severely. They just laugh at paroles and probation. And if the boy be under legal age, then the law should take the father and handle him without gloves. It is the father's fault, nine times out of ten, because of neglect to do his duty in the proper bringing up of the boy. Take the Heuer case right here at home, for instance. The parents went away and left the boy all alone, to live a lonely life in the home place and attend high school. Very naturally he gets into mischief and finally commits a crime. He was no more crazy than anybody else is, just a lonely boy left all alone to his own devices and to run into temptation unrestrained. The father ought to be, and has been punished. We can never cure this criminal record and evil tendency now rampant among our boys unless the parents wake up to a realization of their own responsibility in the premises, and do what God Almighty intended they should do—take care of their families as a father should.

Being interested in mining, along with nearly a hundred other Richmondites, it is interesting to sense the figures now being made public relative to last year's output from the California mines, which, as usual, leads that of any other State in the Union. The Sacramento Bee devotes a department every Wednesday to the mining news of the State, and is the only metropolitan paper that does. Incidentally, the Bee is the best paper published in Northern California, for all kinds of news, especially that pertaining to California. From it we learn that California's output of gold for 72 years has averaged better than two millions a month. That is a mighty yield in the aggregate, and has enriched the world to the amount of billions. It was California gold that came to the aid of the Government during the reconstruction years after the Civil War, and it has been at it ever since. The gold production alone of this State has been nearly two billion dollars to date, to say nothing of the vast output of other metals, of which the state produced in 1921, including gold, $242,000,000. For the past six years the output of gold here fell off considerably, owing to the war and conditions, but it is picking up fast again now, and probably this year will get it back to normal, which is about $22,000,000 a year. Last year it was about $15,000,000. Originally it was all placer mining, with pick and shovel and pan and sluice box, but now the output is mostly from the ledges, from which the placers had their source of gold supply, although dredgers are now going all over the lands once worked by hand placer methods. In our travels around various mining districts during the past year we have seen fine big orchards uprooted and turned topside down by placer mining dredges for the gold they contain. Gold is worth a whole lot more than peaches and prunes. And that reminds us that, in California at least, there is no excuse whatever for unemployment and lack of good wages. We can show a thousand men in 24 hours right where they can take shovels and pans and make from $5 to $10 a day right along, with no trouble whatever. Why sit around town and damn the country and the hard luck, when you can take a shovel and gold pan and go to the health-giving hills and mountain streams and make mighty good wages? In Sierra county alone, Kanacks creek, Oregon creek, Brush creek and the three forks of the Uba river are all open to just such engagements.

We should like to have somebody figure out just why it is that Richmond cannot keep up and maintain a chamber of commerce. Is there some underground current that eats the heart of every civic body of that kind out of it in due time, like a gopher tunnels under a plant and eats the root? Why is it, anyhow? Who can answer the question? In the dozen years we have lived in Richmond we have had four or five such organizations, and every one of them went flooey in distress and petered out like congressional investigations do. The last one is now dead—also damned, as it left a whole lot of unpaid bills behind it. The unpaid bills are a disgrace and stain upon the good name of the city, and the failure, time after time, to keep up such an organization is anything but to our credit as patriotic citizens. Other towns and cities, and even villages, all over the United States, have chambers of commerce, and accomplish real good for their various communities. The City of Oakland is one good example—their chamber of commerce brought over a hundred new manufacturing enterprises, big and little, to that city in the past eighteen months. If the record we have made in chamber of commerce stunts is any criterion, we are sure a prize lot of flaslers and failures when it comes to public pride and effective public work and accomplishment. It has been said that the reason is that "big business" is against making Richmond any bigger than it is, and would have been better satisfied if it had not grown half as much as it has. A big city, it is claimed by some, is a detriment to a large manufacturing institution in many ways, chief of which being taxation. There may be something in this, but we have never noticed that "big business" in Richmond ever threw any bricks at our various sundry chambers of commerce. It never did much of anything to help, either, but has never shown antagonism.

Miramar Chapter Kiddies' Night

Masonic hall was the scene of an enjoyable event last evening when Miramar Chapter, Order of Eastern Star, held its annual kiddies' night. This was one night that the kiddies were the center of attraction and they proceeded to make the most of the occasion. The children gave a very entertaining program early in the evening that was well received by the large crowd in attendance.

A novel and unique feature of the party was a decorated tricycle and coaster parade. The following children won prizes for having the best decorated cars: Peggy Horner, Jane Jenkins, Rebecca Mulik, Marion Woods, Violet and Ivy Black, George and Charles Lauritzen.

At intervals the little tots were lined up and a costume parade held. During these parades they were presented with fancy paper caps and beanbags. The hall was turned over to the little ones, who spent the remainder of the evening playing games. Even the older folks carried away by the gayety of the occasion, indulged in games with the kiddies.

Late in the evening the assemblage repaired to the banquet room, where refreshments wereserved. The remainder of the evening was devoted to dancing.

'Sisters' Filled With Thrills at Macdonald Theater

Albert Capellani, who directed "Sisters," the International Film Service Co., production of Kathleen Norris' novel, believes that the theme of the story is one of the most important in modern life.

"In France, where I was born," said Mr. Capellani, "we have a saying that applies to 'Sisters': 'When there is no hay in the stable, the horses fight.' Cherry, a lively, happy young girl, marries without thinking much about it. Martin Lloyd a rough lumberman, who cannot give her the luxury, or even the comfort, that she has been accustomed to in her father's simple but pleasant home. This hasty and thoughtless marriage is the cause of all the complications which result, and which make of 'Sisters' a powerful, dramatic picture.

"Besides some thrilling scenes of physical action," said Mr. Capellani, "'Sisters' has what I would call mental action, that is, those fine twists of character which give force, charm, subtlety and interest to a story. 'Sisters' is a picture which I enjoyed making because it has some significance."

Seena Owen takes a leading part in "Sisters." Matt Moore, Gladys Leslie, Joe King, Tom Guise, Mildred Arden and Robert Schable are also in the cast. E. Lloyd Sheldon wrote the scenario from Kathleen Norris' novel, which appeared as a serial in Goodhousekeeping.

"Sisters" delighted large and applauding audiences at the Macdonald Theatre last night, and will be shown for the last time tonight, with special Saturday matinee.

"The Skippers's Last Resort," a rollicking Tuneyville comedy and a Prizma balance the bill.

Sulphur Clears up Rough or Red Skin

Face, Neck and Arms Easily Made Smooth, Says Specialist

Any breaking out of the skin, even fiery, itching eczema, can be quickly overcome by applying a little Mentho-Sulphur, declares a notednoted skin specialist. Because of its germ destroying properties, this sulphur preparation begins at once to soothe irritated skin and heal eruptions such as rash, pimples and ring worm.

It seldom fails to remove the torment and disfigurement, and you do not have to wait for relief from embarassment. Improvement quickly shows. Sufferers from skin trouble should obtain a small jar of Mentho-Sulphur from any good druggist and use it like cold cream.

Chapped hands and faces needn't bother. MENTHOLATUM soothes and heals chaps and chilblains quickly and gently

Chaplin in "Pay Day" Pleases T. & D. Patrons

There is only one complain to make about "Pay Day," the latest Charles Chaplin picture which opened a run yesterday at the Richmond T. & D. Theatre. Its two reels should be ten. The picture will be shown again today.

There is only one Chaplin. Anyone doubting it need only see "Pay Day." The distinctiveness of art is something that can be acquired neither by study or work. It is a matter of ability and instinct; and Chaplin is the one person who can blend the fine art of pantomime with a serious mien that makes the whole impresonation irresistibly funny.

Don't ask what "Pay Day" is all about. It hasn't a plot like "The Kid." It isn't supposed to; but it's just as funny. Even a sphinx would break into a coy giggle if it could see Chaplin hanging on to a long chain of sausages, nonchalantly reading his Evening Gazette under the impression that he is swinging along on a crowded street car.

It's Chap in picture. He wrote the story. He directed the making of it and he stars in it. Apparently it would seem that when you've said Chaplin you've said all that needs to be said about a Chaplin comedy. It's more of a truism in this case than ever because in addition to Charles, brother Sydney is in the cast, too. But the players also include Edna Purviance and Mack Swain, who are splendid foils for the star's stunts. The comedy brings the inevitable reflection that "Pay Day" comes only too infrequently.

"Snowblind," a northern drama, and a Kenogram complete the bill.

Z. A. Bethards, stationery fireman, 223 S. Eighth st., says: "About a year ago my kidneys got out of order; my back ached constantly. I couldn't rest at night and in the morning was so lame, I couldn't bend to fasten my shoes. It was all I could do to keep at my work. I had headaches and dizzy spells came over me. Comb Sage Tea In Faded or Gray Hair

Look young! Common garden Sage and Sulphur darkens so naturally nobody can tell Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and attractive with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, all ready to use, at very little cost. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a comb or soft brush and draw it through the hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color, and looks glossy, soft and beautiful.—Advt.

GIRLS! LEMONS BLEACH SKIN WHITE

Squeeze the juice of two lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of Orchard White, which any drug store will supply for a few cents, shake well, and you have a quarter pint of harmless and delightful lemon bleach. Massage this sweetly fragrant lotion into the face, neck, arms and hands each day, then shortly note the beauty and whiteness of your skin.

Famous stage beauties use this lemon lotion to bleach and bring that soft, clear, rosy-white complexion, also as a freckle, sunburn, and tan bleach because it doesn't irritate.

EASIER--CHEAPER AT

Sanitary Free Market

Tenth and Washington, OAKLAND

by William MacLeod Raine

CHAPTER III.—On his first day in New York Lindsay is splashed with water by a janitor. That individual the range-rider punishes summarily and leaves tied to a fire hydrant. A young woman who sees the occurrence invites Clay into her house and hides him from the police.

CHAPTER IV.—Clay's "rescuer" introduces herself as Beatrice Whitford. Lindsay meets her father, Colin Whitford, and is invited to visit them again. He meets Kitty Mason by accident. She has been disappointed in her stage aspirations, and to support herself is selling c[illegible] in a cabaret. Clay visits her [illegible] by a customer. Clay punishes the annoyer. After a mixup Lindsay escapes. Outside, h[illegible] attacked by Jerry Durand and a com[illegible]ion and beaten insensible.

CHAPTER V.—Lindsay's acquaintance with Beatrice Whitford opens. Through her [illegible] is introduced into "society." His "sid[illegible]riner" on the Arizona ranch, Joh[illegible]reen, comes to the "big town."

CHAPTER VII.—The two take an apartment [illegible]ther, Johnnie securing employment [illegible] the Whitford's as "handy man." An advertisement signed "Kitty M." conveys the information that she is in trouble and implores Lindsay to come to a certain house, where she is imprisoned. Clay is dubious as to its authenticity, but finally decides to go. He makes his way into what he supposes is the right house a[illegible]ds himself in a young woman's b[illegible]

CHAPTER VIII.—Naturally, find the girl is reassured when Clay tells the reason for his unmeant intrusion, shows him how to enter the house later, through the roof. In the place comes on a party of "gunmen," obviously waiting for his appearance. Lindsay "in the drop" on the thugs, locks them in a room, and escapes.

CHAPTER IX.—With a theater party which includes the Whitfords, Lindsay meets Kitty Mason, friendless and penniless. He leaves the party to take the girl to his apartment, there seemingly being no other place available and Kitty in dire need of immediate food and warmth.

CHAPTER X.—Beatrice resents Lindsay's interest in Kitty. Though not admitting it even to herself, she is becoming attached to the Arizonan, as he is to her. The two part in anger.

CHAPTER XI.—Hurt and indignant, Beatrice practically proposes marriage to an old admirer, Clarence Bromfield, wealthy man-about-town, and the third member of the party which we met at the beginning of the story. Their engagement is announced. Durand's gang kidnaps Kitty. Clay appeals to the girl he had met the night he escaped the trap Durand had set for him. She tells him where the girl is likely to be found.

CHAPTER XII.—At the place, Clay conceals himself to await the arrival of Durand, probably with Kitty. He decides to fight this alone, and in a fist fight worsts the professional bruiser.

CHAPTER XIII.—Kitty is rescued from her abductors by Johnnie Green, who has long admired the girl. He makes a declaration of his love and the wedding day is promptly set.

Beatrice pointed it out to him. There it was, safely embedded in the plaster, about five feet from the ground.

"Durand wasn't thorough enough. He quit too soon," said the officer with a grin. "Crooks most always do slip up somewhere and leave evidence behind them. Yuh'd think Jerry would have remembered the bullet as well as the bullet hole."

They found the mark of the second bullet, too. It had struck a telephone receiver and taken a chip out of it.

They measured with a tape-line the distance from the floor and the side walls to the place where each bullet struck. Tim dug out the bullet they had found.

They were back in the front room again when a huge figure appeared in the doorway and stood there blocking it.

"Whatta youse doin' here?" demanded a husky voice.

Muldoon nodded a greeting. "Lo, Dave. Just lookin' around to see the scene of the scrap. How about yuh?"

"Beat it," ordered Gorilla Dave, his head thrust forward in a threat. "Youse got no business here."

"Friends av mine." The officer indicated the young woman and her father. "They wanted to see where Slim' was knocked out. So I showed 'em. No harm done."

Dave moved to one side. "Beat it," he ordered again.

In the pocket of Muldoon was a request of the district attorney for admission to the house for the party, with an O. K. by the captain of police in the precinct, but Tim did not show it. He preferred to let Dave think that he had been breaking the rules of the force for the sake of a little private graft. There was no reason whatever for warning Durand that they were aware of the clever trick he had pulled off in regard to the partition.

CHAPTER XIX.

Two and Two Make Four.

From Maddock's the Whitfords drove straight to the apartment house of Clarendon Bromfield. For the third time that morning the clubman's valet found himself overborne by the insistence of visitors.

"We're coming in, you know," the owner of the Bird Cage told him in answer to his explanation of why his master could not be seen. "This is important business and we've got to see Bromfield."

"Yes, sir, but he said—"

"He'll change his mind when he knows why we're here." Whitford pushed in and Beatrice followed him. From the adjoining room came the sound of voices.

"I thought you told us Mr. Bromfield had gone to sleep and the doctor said he wasn't to be awakened," said Beatrice with a broad, boyish smile at the man's discomfiture.

"The person inside wouldn't take no, miss, for an answer.

"He was like us, wasn't he? Did he give his name?" asked the young woman.

"No, miss. Just said he was from the Omnium club."

Whitford and his daughter exchanged glances. "Same business we're on. Announce us and we'll go right in."

They were on his heels when he gave their names.

Bromfield started up, too late to prevent their entrance. He stood silent for a moment, uncertain what to do, disregarding his fiancee's glance of hostile inquiry lifted toward the other guest.

The mining man forced his hand. "Won't you introduce us, Clarendon?" he asked bluntly.

Reluctantly their host went through the formula. He was extremely uneasy. There was material for an explosion present in this room that would blow him sky-high if a match should be applied to it. Let Durand get to telling what he knew about Clarendon and the Whitfords would never speak to him again. They might even spread a true story that would bar every house and club in New York to him.

"We've heard of Mr. Durand," said Beatrice.

Her tone challenged the attention of the gang leader. The brave eyes flashed defiance straight at him. A pulse of anger was throbbing in the soft round throat.

Inscrutably he watched her. It was his habit to look hard at attractive women. "Most people have," he admitted.

"Mr. Lindsay is our friend," she said. "We've just come from seeing him."

The man to whom she was engaged had been put through so many flutters of fear during the last twelve hours that a new one more or less did not matter. But he was still not shock-proof. His fingers clutched tighter the arm of the chair.

"W-what did he tell you?"

Beatrice looked into his eyes and read in them once more stark fear. Again she had a feeling that there was something about the whole affair she had not yet fathomed—some secret that Clay and Clarendon and perhaps this captain of thugs knew.

She tried to read what he was hiding, groped in her mind for the key to his terror. What could it be that he was afraid Clay had told her? What was it they all knew except Lindsay's friends? And why, since Clarendon was trembling lest it be discovered, should the Arizonan too, join the conspiracy of silence? At any rate she would not uncover her hand.

"He told us several things," she said significantly. "You've got to make open confession, Clary."

The ex-pugilist chewed his cigar and looked at her.

"What would he confess? That the man with him murdered Collins?"

"That's not true," said the girl quickly.

"So Lindsay's your friend, eh? Different here, miss." Jerry pieced together what the clubman had told him and what he had since learned about her. He knew that this must be the girl to whom his host was engaged. "How about you, Bromfield?" he sneered.

The clubman stiffened. "I've nothing against Mr. Lindsay."

"Thought you had."

"Of course he hasn't. Why should he?" asked Beatrice, backing up Clarendon.

Durand looked at her with a bold insolence that was an insult. His eyes moved up and down the long, slim curves of her figure. "I expect he could find a handsome reason if he looked around for it, miss."

Report Many Cases Of Rheumatism Now

Says we must keep feet dry; avoid exposure and eat less meat.

Stay off the damp ground, avoid exposure, keep feet dry, eat less meat, drink lots of water and above all take a spoonful of salts occasionally to keep down uric acid.

Rheumatism is caused by poisonous toxin, called uric acid, which is generated in the bowels and absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this acid from the blood and cast it out in the urine. The pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly, cold weatehr the skin pores are closed, thus forcing the kidneys to do double work, they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate this uric acid which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles causing stiffness soreness and pain called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is said to eliminate uric acid by stimulating the kidneys to normal action, thus ridding the blood of these impurities.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and is said with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism. Here you have a pleasant effervescent lithia-water drink which overcomes uric acid and is beneficial to your kidneys as well.

TRUSTEES AT EL CERRITO MEET

El Cerrito trustees last night received an invitation from the California League of Municipalities to send a delegate to the meeting to be held in Stockton today, at Hotel Lincoln. The trustees, however, declined to name a delegate.

Public-owned utilities under the control of the Railroad Commission and the taxation of such utilities are to be among the subjects at today's meeting.

Fire Commissioner Robert Connolly recommended that the trustees buy two American LaFrance fire trucks for use in El Cerrito. The two would cost $2,633.30, and Mayor Phil Lee thought an outlay in excess of $300 would call for advertising. The clerk therefore was directed to take the necessary action.

City Engineer W. S. Farley was directed and authorized to prepare plans and specifications for the improvement of Clayton avenue for its full length.

Fred Lutz, secretary of the El Cerrito Sanitary Board, asked if the city would not reduce the deposits required of contractors when sewer work is undertaken. The present rate of the city, of 65 cents a yard, he regarded as tending to make the bids higher than they otherwise would be.

No action was taken.

An overhead crossing at the intersection of the Santa Fe and Eureka avenue was suggested by Frank Walsh. The matter was continued to next Friday evening.

More than 100 names were signed to a petition protesting against the improvement of Lincoln avenue under the present assessment plan, which is to tax property for two blocks on either side of the avenue. Their contention was that the benefits to them were too remote and too uncertain to warrant this method.

Red Pepper Heat Stops Backache

The heat of red peppers takes the "ouch" from a sore, lame back. It can not hurt you, and it certainly ends the torture at once.

When you are suffering so you can hardly get around, just try Red Pepper Rub, and you will have the quickest relief known. Nothing has such concentrated, penetrating heat as red peppers.

Just as soon as you apply Red Pepper Rub you feel the tingling heat. In three minutes it warms the sore spot through and through. Pain and soreness are gone.

Foley's Honey and Tar

COMPOUND

AN OLD RELIABLE FAMILY REMEDY, recommended for coughs, colds, tickling of the throat, spasmodic croup, whooping cough, la grippe, and bronchial coughs, hoarseness, etc.

The First Dose Gave Relief

C. E. Summers, Holdredge, Neb., writes: "Some time ago I contracted a very severe cough that would keep me awake nights. My cough got so bad I could hardly sleep for two or three nights. A friend of mine recommended Foley's Honey and Tar Compound, and I got a 50c bottle. The very first dose relieved me. I took a second dose before going to bed and can truthfully say I did not cough once all night. By using as directed the next two days my cough was entirely gone, and I give Foley's Honey and Tar full credit for my speedy and permanent recovery."

For more than thirty years Foley's Honey and Tar has been used with satisfaction and success. Sold Everywhere

My stomach, kidney and liver were in bad condition. The lower part of my body pained me awfully. I could hardly lie on either side and sleep. My bowels were hard to move and painful. I treated with other doctors and medicines, but did not seem to do me much good. After taking six weeks Kong Wah Herbs I feel like a new woman.

Stomach As Heavy As Lead

March 16, 1922.
I suffered from dysentery and difficult breathing, my bowels moving constantly with bloody discharges. I also had burning indigestion and my stomach felt as though there was a piece of lead in it. Failing to get relief elsewhere, I took the herbs of the FONG WAN HERB CO. for two weeks. My former complaints have left me entirely and I am now enjoying good health.

Suffered Unnecessarily
Oakland, Feb. 3, 1922.
At intervals I suffered severe pleurisy pains which began in the right side of my chest and ran around under my arm into my shoulder blade. It was both painful and difficult to raise my arm. I had taken various sorts of treatment for the trouble, but had found no relief.
Now, after seven weeks of the FONG WAN HERBS, the pain in my chest is entirely gone and I feel quite well. I bought the herbs in packages and cooked them at home.

If Back Hurts Use Salts for Kidneys

Eat less meat if Kidneys feel like lead or bladder bothers you—Meat forms uric acid

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatism twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean, and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is harmless to flush clogged kidneys and stimulates them to normal activity. It also neutralizes the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is harmless; inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent drink which everybody should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean, thus avoiding serious complications.

A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.
